

Paola Mercogliano received his Master's Degree in Physics from University of Naples "Federico II" in 2001. She is currently head of the C.I.R.A. (Italian Aerospace Research Center) Meteorology Laboratory and Division Director of the Regional Models and geo-hydrological Impacts Division of CMCC Foundation (Euro-Mediterranean Center on Climate Change). She is is a senior researcher with more than 14 years of research experience on meteorology, climate change and adaptation strategies. Currently involved in different national and international project as scientific leader. She is author of several papers on referenced international journals.